OGDEN, Oct. 14 .- A lone would-be negro saloon man and an elusive liquor license are creating a "tempest in a teapot" in city government affairs just now.

The negro, Ed Vaiton, purchased the Lincoln saleon from Nels Peterson last month, assuming that he would not have any trouble in securing the transfer of the license when the one under which Peterson was operating conjust. Peterson was operating expired. MURRAY, Oct. 14.—Postmaster D. F. Cahoon of Murray, also one of the board of trustees of the Murray schools, has left for Mexico, where he will spend the next thirty days on a business trip.

A farewell entertainment was given at the Granite stake tabernacle last evening in honor of George Sturm, prior to his departure for the South, where he intends remaining some time. A delightful programme made up out of local talent was rendered. E. C. Fish and Professor Loubeujoler spoke during the evening.

The proposed franchise that is to be issued to the Utab Light and Railway company is still hanging fire in the Murray council. At last evening's session nothing definite was decided upon, however, a committee of three was appointed to confer with the railway company and go over the franchise there pointed to confer with the railway company and go over the franchise thoroughly.

The installation of incandescent lights to the boundaries of Murray City will be commenced within the next two days. There were two bids for the construction of this work, and upon being opened it was found that the Progress company had made the lowest bid, its bid being $1500, while the Salt Lake Electric Supply company's bid was much higher. CHILLY RECEPTION IS GIVEN SMOOT CROWD

Meeting at Mt. Pleasant Very Dull and Devoid of Enthusiasm.

pecial to The Tribune.

MT. PLEASANT, Oct. 14.-The first gun of the campaign this year was fired last night at the opera house in this city. The house was fairly well filed, but there seemed to be a chill throughout the audience which spellbinders were not able to cast off. F. C. Jensen of this city was chairman of the meeting, notwithstanding the fact that under the machine rule of Sanpete county he could not even get a look in to a county convention.

A. U. Miner of Fairview, candidate for superintendent of schools, spoke first. He pleaded for the passage of the proposed amendment to the constitution giving state aid to high schools of the state.

David Mattson of Ogden, candidate for state treasurer, made his bow to the audience and told them he had held public office for the last ren years, but had last night at the opera house in this city. ic office for the last ten years, but had never made a speech before in his life. This the audience believed before he got

This the audience believed before he got through.

"Bill" Spry was next introduced, and proceeded to tell the people what good governors this state had had in Governors. Wells and Cutier, but he failed to tell why such a good governor as Cutier had been told to keep out of the race this year. He told the audience how the arid lands have been developed under state and national administrations. He spoke highly of the school system of the state, and hoped he would live to see the day when lawvers, doctors and professional men of all classes would be made in Utah and not have to go to Michigan to school. The Republican party, he said, stood pledged to develop the resources of the state, so that our young men would not have to go to other states to build up homes. He believed in having good roads and an honest administration of public affairs, and if elected he would follow the precedent of honesty established by his predecessors.

The Howell was next introduced to the decessors.

Joe Howell was next introduced to the audience, but his speech created no more enthusiasm than did the speeches of his associates. He discussed the hard times under Cleveland, and told the people that everything depreciated in value and the country went to the bad. He praised the tariff and assured his audience that it would be revised to suit all the people under Taft, when he is elected. The tariff made wool higher, but he failed to mention how it was that wool went begunder Tait, when he is elected. The tariff made wool higher, but he failed to mention how it was that wool went begging this year at 8 and 10 cents per pound. He referred to President Roosevelt as a bright and shining ornament who had prosecuted the trusts of the country to a finish. He advised the young men not to marry until Taft is elected, because if Bryan should happen to be elected hard times would come, and he was afraid the brides would go lungry. Mr. Howell said that Wells and Cutler had made splendid governors, but Spry would make a much better governor than either of his predecessors. His experience along all lines had so broadened him that he would make an ideal governor. He appealed in closing for all the voters of Sanpete to vote for the machine ticket, and not be led astray after false gods.

He Is the Man Who Was Shot in the Leg by Frank Bussinger.

"Doctor" Thomas Wallace, herbalist, an old man, who was shot in the leg several months ago by Frank Bussinger, of 227 West South Temple street, died suddenly at the Holy Cross hospital Wednesday morning about 9 o'clock of heart failure.

"Doctor" Wallace lived at 333 South West Temple street at the time the shooting occurred, which was occasioned over some remark Wallace had made in regard to Bussinger's relations with a woman.

Wallace was seated in front of his door when Bussinger went to him and demanded an apology. Wallace and Bussinger had heated words, and the former drew a revolver, and just as the latter was trying to dodge through a door into his house he was shot in the left leg, about eight inches from the hip.

The injured man was taken to the Holy Cross hospital, where his leg had to be cut open to take out the bullet and shattered bone.

Bussinger was arrested, and is now out of jail on bonds. The death of the "doctor" may bring Bussinger before the court to answer to a charge of murder.

In his speech here tonight. Mr. Kern, prophesying Democratic victory at the polis, said:

"In 1876 a mighty contest was waged in this land and the candidates were Samuel J. Tilden and Thomas A. Hendricks. New York, New Jersey and Indiana cast the deciding vote in that election. The last shovel of concrete finally has been put into the Moran walk at the University of Utah. Nearly a month ago P. J. Moran agreed to furnish the materials necessary for the construction of a much-needed extension to connect the gymnasium with the end of the present walk. The students were to furnish the labor, and the greater part was finished immediately, after which the work remained untouched for some time. Several dates were set on which it was planned to complete the task. Bad weather and other unforeseen obstacles prevented the carrying out of the plans, however, until Wednesday morning. At the conclusion of the stunt all the students lined up and were given free tickets to a big feed in the lunch room. Miss Van Cott says that fully one hundred and seventy-five boys were in on the dinner. To commemorate the part taken by the present freshmen and sophomore boys, each class obtained a supply of conper rivets and stuck them the part taken by the present freshmen and sophomore boys, each class obtained a supply of copper rivets and stuck them in the soft concrete so as to form their respective class numerals, 1912 and 1911. These inscriptions will last as long as the walk remains, and will bear witness to the brawn and sinew of the boys who did the work. Professor R. R. Lyman, who engineered the proposition, is greatly pleased with the way the students took held of the job and pushed it to completion.

Melvin Naylor, Wallace Woolf and A. Nielson were appointed as a committee of the sophomore class, at a meeting held Wednesday noon, for the purpose of investigating the class rush matter, with a view to arranging a contest which will give the sophomores, who are always greatly out-numbered by their opponents, the freshmen, an even chance to carry off the victory. Under present conditions this is next to impossible. If the faculty can be persuaded to purchase a push ball, which the sophomores claim costs but a hundred dellars, this may furnish a solution to the problem. The ball is a huge leather affair, about eight feet in height, and the point of the contest is to mancurer the ball across the opponent's goal line.

A new "wrinkle" in connection with eligibility was introduced by the faculty at a meeting Wednesday, and the profes-sors say that it is to be enforced to the letter. The plan is to place participants in every kind of student activity under the in every kind of student activity under the identical regulations which apply to student athletes. This will mean that & class president, for instance, who falls behind in his studies will, for a period, be disqualified from participating in his class affairs. Or a member of the Chronicisstaff will be forced by the ruling to restrain his desire to express himself in print until he has adjusted his scholastic difficulties. The students can hardly see how this plan will work out, and many of them are of the opinion that it is out of the question. Developments will be watched with interest.
